Federal Budget In Red

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — The Western White House announced Tuesday that last year's federal budget was $2.9 billion in the red, worse than expected but not as bad as it might have been.

In making the announcement, Director George P. Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget, told newsmen, "We were successful in holding the expenditure line."

Although the ultimate deficit of $2.9 billion for the fiscal year that ended June 30 was $1.1 billion higher than the administration's estimate in May, the spending total was $1.4 billion lower than the May projection.

Shultz, recently installed as the government's top budget-making official, described the results as "a strong and satisfactory performance."

He declined to make any guesses about the deficit expected in the current fiscal year.

Cities Quiet After Violence, Disorder

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

City officials met in Asbury Park, N.J., on Tuesday in the wake of new disturbances in the black section. Disorders in the resort city earlier this month left 100 injured, 200 arrested and $4 million in property damage.

A City Hall spokesman said there were no immediate plans to declare a curfew or take any other emergency procedures following several hours of violence Monday night and early Tuesday.

Asbury Park was quiet during the day as were some other cities around the nation that had been hit Monday and early Tuesday by disorders. They included Chicago, Bridgeport, Conn., New Bedford, Mass., and West Chester, Pa.

The disturbance at Asbury Park started when two policemen tried to stop a dice game in the street and a large crowd gathered.

Police said they dispersed the "very belligerent" crowd by firing shotguns over their heads. One policeman was treated for a buckshot wound, and two other persons were injured when rocks were flung through their car windshields. Sixteen persons were arrested.

The Chicago Park District announced cancellation of all remaining free rock concerts intended at "bridging the generation gap," after rioting Monday night left more than 100 persons injured, including 24 policemen. There were 148 arrested.

Several automobiles were set afire, store windows were broken and contents looted and three youths were shot when some members of an audience of 50,000 became disorderly after leaving the concert when a rock group failed to appear.

One policeman in Bridgeport was hospitalized after he and a colleague were injured while arresting a tenant at a largely Negro housing project. The arrested man also was injured.

A crowd of about 400 which gathered after the arrest was dispersed by police using dogs and Mace.

In West Chester, a 9 p.m. to daybreak curfew remained in effect and all was reported quiet after a disturbance by about 100 black youths outside the police station.

The youths were demanding the arrest of a man they said had injured a girl. About 100 police used tear gas to disperse the youths.

New Bedford Mayor Georges Rogers said he was ready to reimpose a curfew if further disorders broke out. Twenty persons were arrested Monday night after sporadic rock-throwing incidents. One of the injured was Tito Morales, a member of a committee asked by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., to investigate the causes of earlier rioting.

Leaders of Negro organizations in Houston announced they would ask the FBI to investigate a shoot-out Sunday night in which militant leader Carl Hampton was killed and four others injured.

In another city, Cambridge, Mass., an indefinite curfew was imposed after a weekend rock-throwing spree by 400 youths in Harvard Square.

Army Court To Hear My Lai Charges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charges against seven officers of failing to obey a lawful regulation in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre will be referred to the Army's equivalent of a grand jury, the Army said Tuesday at Ft. Meade, Ga.

At the same time, Army officials at Ft. McPherson, Ga., completed a series of hearings to find out whether Capt. Ernest Medina will be tried in connection with the deaths at the Vietnamese hamlet.

The charges against Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, former West Point commandant, and the six others stem from inquiry into the alleged massacre by a board headed by Gen. William R. Peers.

The others whose cases were referred Tuesday with Koster's to what the Army calls an Article 32 investigation were Col. Oran K. Henderson, Lt. Col. David C. Gavin, Lt. Col. William D. Guinn, Maj. Charles C. Calhoun, Maj. Frederick W. Walke and Capt. Daniel H. Johnson.

Dismissal of court martial charges against Col. Robert B. Luper and Capt. Kenneth W. Boatman, also charged as a result of the Peers inquiry, were announced.

The Article 32 hearing, to which the seven were referred is provided for under the U.S. Code of Military Justice and must be held to determine whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant trial by court martial. In effect it is much the same as a grand jury investigation in civilian legal proceedings.

No date was set for the start of the investigation. The announcements were made by Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, commanding general of the 1st Army.

The Peers board announced its findings in March after a 14 week probe of whether the Army adequately investigated or tried to cover up the alleged mass killing of South Vietnamese civilian by Americans in March 1968.

Blacks Want Funds Cut Off in Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaining that voluntary agreements have not worked, a black community coalition Tuesday asked the Labor Department to shut off federal construction funds to Chicago, and invoke the mandatory Philadelphia Plan to put more minority group workers on federally funded construction projects.

The Rev. A.I. Dunlap, coordinator of Chicago's Coalition for United Community Action, said in a telegram to Secretary of Labor James Hodgson that six months after unions, contractors and his coalition agreed to the voluntary Chicago Plan, "not a single commitment contained in the plan has been fulfilled."

"All available evidence indicates that there is no reason to believe that the potential of the Chicago Plan will be realized in the future," the telegram said, "as a result of the adamant refusal of the building trades unions and the contractors to fulfill obligations."

A Labor Department spokesman said there would be no comment until the telegram had been received and studied.

We are aware of the problem out there, he said, noting that Assistant Secretary of Labor Arthur Fletcher told the coalition last week by telephone that the department would investigate allegations that the Chicago Plan was not working.

Dunlap's telegram asked the government to "withhold all federal funds for public construction projects in Chicago."

Regents Hear Construction Progress Report

Construction progress on the three new buildings at Texarkana College is approximately one month to five weeks behind contract schedule, architect Robert Reinheimer told the College board of regents Tuesday night.

Reinheimer said the physical education building and the engineering, mathematics and physics building are expected to be completed by Dec. 15, or about one month behind schedule.

He said construction on the Palmer Memorial Library building is going at a slower pace and said the completion date would probably be after the first of the year. The architect said the reason the library construction was slower was due to the length of time required to find a competent construction superintendent and said the building project is more tedious than the other building.

Reinheimer said the construction is probably keeping pace now with the original schedule but said he doubted much of the time would be gained before completion.

The board moved to hold for further study bids submitted for construction of a greenhouse because the bids received were almost twice the amount budgeted. Reinheimer was authorized to make a study and asked to report to the college administration.

In other action the board approved a motion to approve preliminary plans for movable furnishings and fixed equipment for the three new buildings although the plans called for approximately $10,000 more than was budgeted. The plans for the movable furnishings were submitted by representatives of a Dallas firm and the fixed equipment by Reinheimer. Each of the plans were approximately $5,000 dollars more than was budgeted.

Texarkana Residents In Accident

Two Texarkana residents were treated and released at Wadley Hospital Tuesday afternoon after being involved in an automobile accident about one mile west of Hooks, Tex., at 4:15 p.m.

Raymond White, 46, of 2416 Laurel St., Texarkana, Ark., and Mrs. Grace R. Waller, 51, of R.5, Texarkana, Tex., drivers of the two vehicles involved, were taken to the hospital by Texarkana, Tex., fire department ambulances after the crash.

Wadley officials said White was treated for head lacerations. Mrs. Waller suffered possible back injuries.

Texas Highway Patrolman said the two were involved in a collision near Gate 15 of Lone Star Ordnance Works on Highway 82.

completion money of the projects.

Copeland also told the board the street surfacing program had been approved, and was listed as a first year project.

At the time of approval, it was requested in the form of an Interim Assistance grant, he said, but funds were not available then. The carry-over in Model Cities funds, he said, can now allow for the completion of the street program.

The present progress of the street program, Copeland said, includes the surfacing of about 12 a and one half miles of streets. The completion of the street program will see seven and one half miles of city street resurfaced.

The 20 miles of surfaced street under the street program, Copeland said, is about 40 per cent of the streets in Texarkana, Ark. The seven and one half miles under the completed phase of the program will be in the Model Neighborhood areas of the city.

The street program also includes the replacement of the 12th Street bridge, the Siebert Street bridge and the Preston Street bridge.

The board of directors also approved the Rev. Mayfield Brewster as the replacement for John Larry on the city Planning Commission.

Larry term recently expired, and Brewster was named to fill the post for a one-year term.

The board also authorized Smith to contract for the Economic Development project before the July 31 deadline in the absence of City Manager Paul Schriever.

AT CHARLES MANSON TRIAL

Linda Kasabian Testifies About Sharon Tate Murders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sobbing Linda Kasabian testified Tuesday at the Charles Manson murder trial that she saw the killing of two of the five victims of the Sharon Tate murders and said she heard screams from the other victims.

At one point, Mrs. Kasabian said, her horror reached the point where she cried out, "Oh, God, make it stop!" and pleaded with one of her two girl companions to end the bloodbath.

Mrs. Kasabian testified for the state that Manson sent his lieutenant, Charles "Tex" Watson, and the three girl disciples on a midnight mission that ended at the rented house of Miss Tate, 26, a blonde movie star, who was pregnant.

Mrs. Kasabian then testified she watched Watson shoot to death the first victim, Steven Parent, 18, a visitor driving away from the mansion, stab and beat to death Wojciech Frykowski, 37, a Polish-born guest whose body was found later on the lawn.

Mrs. Kasabian said that at one point the bloodied but still alive Frykowski was leaning against a pole outside the mansion and "we looked in each other's eyes for a moment and I said, 'I'm sorry, I'm sorry. Oh, God, make it stop.'"

Mrs. Kasabian told of seeing one of Manson's codefendants, Patricia "Katie" Krenwinkel, 22, knife in hand, chasing another of the murder victims, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 26, who also died outside.

Another trial defendant, Susan "Sadie" Atkins, 21, approached her in the midst of the carnage, Mrs. Kasabian testified.

"I said, 'Sadie, make it stop,' but she said, 'It's too late,'" the witness continued. "She said she had left her knife inside."

Mrs. Kasabian apparently did not see the slayings of Miss Tate and hair stylist Jay Sebring, 35.

Mrs. Kasabian said that after the initial shooting, the four walked toward the Tate house. Later she said she watched Watson cut away a screen in one of the windows. He told her to return to Parent's car to serve as a look-out. Then Mrs. Kasabian continued:

"I waited 15 minutes, then all of a sudden I heard people screaming and saying 'No, no, please no.'

"Then bowing her head in her hand, Mrs. Kasabian said in a muffled voice, "It was horrible."

Mrs. Kasabian said she and the others were dispatched after sundown Aug. 8, 1969, and that it was about midnight when Miss Tate and four others in her home, including visiting friends, were massacred.

The witness said that she was not aware when they set out that the assignment was murder.

"I thought we were going on a creepy-crawly mission, where you go into people's houses and take things that actually belong to you because everything belongs to everybody."

Mrs. Kasabian said the three girl disciples were commanded to do whatever Manson's lieutenant told them on the mission.

"Charlie came to my side of the car," she said, "and told us to leave a sign. He said, 'You girls know what I mean—something witchy.'

The killers left behind the words "helter skelter" scrawled in blood—a term Mrs. Kasabian said held great significance in the far-out philosophy of Manson, 35, leader of their communal cult.

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, has been granted immunity in the case in return for her testimony as the state's star witness. She was on the stand for a second day, wearing the same blue and red dirndl she wore Monday.

The defense objected to virtually every question she was asked and was turned down by Superior Court Judge Charles Older. The tenacity of defense attorneys in their efforts to block her testimony led Mrs. Kasabian occasionally to break into laughter.

Before turning to events of the night of the Tate slayings, Mrs. Kasabian was led through a lengthy examination on the unconventional sex habits of Manson and his hippie-style "family" of about 20 disciples, most of them young women.

Mrs. Kasabian said she joined the Manson family at the lonely Spahn movie ranch July 4, 1969, and that on the following night "He made love to me."

Q Were there any male visitors who came to the ranch?

A Yes.

Q Did Charlie ever tell you girls to do anything with these male visitors?

A Yes, he told us to make love to them and try to get them to join the family, and if they wouldn't join the family, not to give them any more attention.

On another occasion at the ranch, Mrs. Kasabian testified, the family was together and "there was one particular girl, I don't remember her name, she was maybe 16, and shy and withdrawn.

"She was lying in the middle of her room. Charlie took her clothes off, was kissing her and started to make love to her. She was rejecting him and at one point she bit him on the shoulder and he hit her on the face. Then she just kind of let go."

Mrs. Kasabian said Manson then directed one of his male followers to make love to the nude teen-ager "and everybody to touch her and kiss her and make love to her, and everybody did."

She said Manson then "told everybody to make love to everybody."

Q What followed thereafter?

A Everybody made love to everybody. We shed our clothes and were lying on the floor and it didn't matter if a man or a woman was beside you, you touched everybody and made love to everybody.

Q Was there sexual intercourse?

A Yes.

Mrs. Kasabian testified that Manson was obsessed with the idea of "a revolution where blacks and whites are going to get together and kill each other."

NEW SERVICES

rehabilitation. The grants, which became available July 1 of this year, would provide for up to 90 per cent of the staffing funds for the first year with decreasing amounts for seven additional years.

One stipulation is that the applicant organization must be a public or private non-profit agency or organization which will affiliate with a community mental health center before accepting funding. Texarkana does have a mental health center.

"We are just in the process of organization now but we see lots of good things to come from the Texarkana Council. The Texarkana Jaycees are with us and are helping in the organization and membership drive. But the support of the community is a must if the Council is to achieve the success it must achieve in the fight with alcoholism.

The Texarkana Council does have a telephone number any interested person can call for information about treatment available for an alcoholic and the number will be answered at any time of the day or night, Mrs. Rape said. The number is 773-6431. The council also has a post office box, P.O. Box 2644, and literature will be sent upon request.

Pershing's Rank

Gen. John J. Pershing was the only person to have held the rank of General of the Armies. He was authorized to prescribe his own insignia, but never wore in excess of four stars. The rank originally was established by Congress for George Washington in 1799, but no record has been found to show that the appointment was made.

The final article will show what Red River Army Depot has done to establish a policy to help rehabilitate the problem drinker or alcoholic and reduce the cost of this disease to industry.

AT THURSDAY MEET

'School Closing' Discussion Set by Neighborhood Council

The Ozan-Ingham Neighborhood Council has scheduled a community meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday to discuss the desegregation plan for the Texarkana, Ark., School District and "the closing of neighborhood schools."

The meeting will be held at the Ozan-Ingham-Iron Mountain Neighborhood Center at 2309 East Ninth St.

According to Herbert Davenport, president of the Ozan-Ingham Neighborhood Council, the meeting is being held to allow "all concerned parents in Texarkana, Ark.," to discuss the closing of neighborhood schools, transportation difficulties involved in following the school district's plan for desegregation, and "hazards involved in reaching designated schools."

"We are requesting," an announcement from the neighborhood council stated, "that all interested parents and persons please attend this meeting. Because of the problems involved with the transportation of these kids and the distances involved, the Neighborhood Council and its president, Herbert Davenport, and many concerned parents, feel that this problem should be discussed and a valid solution resolved."

The Texarkana, Ark., School District desegregation plan, approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, calls for students in grades one-through-five in the Carver School Area — which includes the Ozan-Ingham Neighborhood — to attend a school outside the Carver area.

To do so, members of the Texarkana, Ark., school board pointed out during discussion of the plan while it was being formed, some students may have to cross one or two major highways to get to their assigned schools.
